I've been seriously bad about getting a blog started here, but you can access my current blogs at <http://backstage-itarod.blogspot.com/> and <http://sunhusky.blogspot.com/>

Backstage Iditarod deals with all things Iditarod and will be the place to come for not just book news but photos and updates on Iditarod related topics. Sunhusky's Alaska is more personal in nature, giving you a glimpse into what it's like to live in The Last Frontier. Although created before I even thought about writing "Becoming Alaskan," it is the one that will best reflect that book and my life here in Alaska. It's also the blog that is more frequently updated, so check it often!
