What is an editor?

An editor is someone who takes your words and makes them better. No matter how good a writer you are, there's always room for an improvement and an editor can make a good writer's words great.

BOOK COACH

There are several levels of editing. Currently, I am revving up in the category that has been dubbed a "Book Coach".

What is a Book Coach?

The work "coach" is the key. It's someone who helps you achieve your goals via training and assistance as needed. Services can range from being available for quick phone calls, helping with plot/writing snafus and in general being there for you throughout the entire process, to helping you set up your own publishing company when that manuscript is done and ready for the world. While I'd certainly love to publish your book under the Sunhusky imprint, my goal is to help you do what you want to do, whether with Sunhusky or elsewhere.

Please contact me if you think I can be of assistance.
